THREE GIRLS who share a room with their sister tell us what it's like

ROXIE

Until last year, I didn't mind sharing with my sister. But now I'm a bit older, I'd love to have a room of my own where I can put up my posters and have things the way I want them.

My sister and I are quite different – she leaves her clothes all over the floor, but I like to have everything in the right place. We study in our room and always have music playing. She listens to pop and I like rock, which can be a problem!

THEA

My sister and I have to share a room because our house is quite small. It works well for us. We chat together for hours, listen to music, and do our homework there. We each have our own area, which we try to keep tidy. It's not easy but we do our best!

My hobby is climbing, and on the wall next to my bed I've got lots of photos of the world's best-known climbers, which I cut out of magazines.

BRITT

When my brother, who's at university now, left home, my sister and I got our own rooms for the first time. These days we only share when he comes back for holidays.

In some ways I miss being in the same room as her. We don't have as many conversations together as we did then. But one good thing is that I go to bed earlier and get up later. My sister's quite noisy – and she plays loud rock music all the time!
